

The Photographic Angle and Royal Photographic Society Environmental Awareness Bursary 2019

The Royal Photographic Society in partnership with The Photographic Angle is offering a 1-year bursary to support a photographic project that will promote environmental awareness. In addition to the funding you will also be able to have your portfolio printed by Metro Imaging.

Applications are invited from anyone living or studying in the United Kingdom with a talent for taking photographs and an interest in the environmental concerns that we face today.

The bursary will provide £3000 to assist with travel expenses, photographic equipment and other project-related costs.

The closing date will be the 4 June 2019. We will notify the successful applicants by the 8 July 2019.

We are looking for a creative interpretation of the subject as well as documentary and editorial photography.

The successful applicant will be expected to deliver a 500 word report and 6 images, 6 months into the project. The final report needs to be 1000 words with 10 images, along with an agreement to give a talk or workshop on their project at an RPS event.

If you wish to apply, please carefully read through the online application form and fill in each section.

Although this is a photographic bursary, it is important that you can express your objectives and outcomes in written form.

Please also give a clear breakdown on how you plan to spend the bursary, the time scale and what you plan to do with the work on completion.

Although your work will be published in the RPS Journal and TPA and RPS websites we will be looking for an applicant who has a clear idea of where and how they will use their images to get their messages across to as wide an audience as possible.

Applications will not be accepted via email.
