A selection of images from the International Photography Exhibition will be exhibited at the National Trust's Fox Talbot Museum in Lacock June 24 - April 25.

The International Photography Exhibition has been held almost every year since 1854 and is the longest running exhibition of its kind in the world. In the early years, the exhibition included work from some of the world's most eminent photographers including Julia Margaret Cameron, Roger Fenton, Edward Steichen and Paul Strand.

The IPE is selected from an open-call. Exhibiting photographers have documented personal stories, explored new ideas and concepts, created powerful portraits, and crafted striking landscapes of the world we inhabit. From digital and analogue, to collage and wet collodion, all formats of photographic image-making are eligible. The exhibition at the Fox Talbot Museum represents a selection from the last three years' worth of RPS exhibitions.

Exhibitions at the Fox Talbot Museum are free to visit however paid entry to Lacock Abbey applies. RPS Members receive 50% discount off entry from September to end of exhibition run.
