'Shades of Morning' by Lin Collins LRPS

Winner of the Digital Imaging monthly competition for February

WELCOME

Spring is springing if not yet fully sprung, and with it we seem to be in the season of online photography conferences, some of which have taken the place of events which traditionally take place this time of year and others of which are new and different.

Owing to a collaboration with the Digital Imaging Zoom Sub-Group, the Arena Photographers extended an invitation to DI members to attend this year's Arena Seminar on 6 March, which is now sold out. If you didn't manage to register, you might want to take a look at the 'Spring Shoots' offer from The Photography Show on 6-7 March which features some free talks and demos, and paid-for 'Super State' sessions and a pro conference.

For something new and different, there's The Art of Photography Conference, a worldwide virtual event on 17 April with a high-powered mid-Atlantic combination of some very well-known UK-based photographers beginning the day - David Noton, Richard Curtis, Paul Mitchell, Ray Spence, Maarten Rots, Martin Evening and Nat Coalson – followed by an equally impressive line-up of North Americans later in the day – Tony Sweet, Dan Burkholder, Guy Tal, Ron Cooper, James Bourret, Brenda Tharp, Julieanne Kost, Nevada Weir and Michael E. Gordon. In case it sounds like too much, the organisers promise that all sessions will be available to those who register for 30 days after the event.

And for a veritable feast of photographers, Out of Chicago is back on 9-11 April with a three-day conference offering 40+ photography speakers in over 100 sessions.

Reeling back down to earth, we are still looking for volunteers to keep the Digital Imaging wheels turning. First of all, our Eastern Centre Organiser is stepping down and we urgently need someone to join the team. In addition, we are still looking for an Online Event Programme Secretary, a DI Centres Liaison and a Social Media Manager. Please contact Lyn Phillips (digsecretary@btinternet.com) if you can help.

In the meantime, our next online event will be 'An Introduction to the Power of Luminosity Masking' with Sean Bagshaw on 13 March: rps.org/digonline16.

Remember, your contributions to this newsletter are very welcome.

MONTHLY ONLINE COMPETITION

The winner of our February monthly online competition was 'Shades of Morning' by Lin Collins LRPS, featured on the cover. (For more information about the friendly monthly competition, including how to enter, visit www.rps.org/

Lin Collins LRPS

I was surprised and delighted to be the winner of February's monthly competition, especially as the quality of entries seemed to me to be so high.

'Shades of Morning' is a landscape purely from my imagination. The base ICM [Ed: intentional camera movement] image was captured at dawn on the beach at Wells-by-the-Sea. I was captivated by the variety of tones and beautiful colours more than by the scene itself, and my original 'straight' photograph somehow failed to capture the real atmosphere on that morning. The individual elements of the scene were almost a distraction, so I tried an ICM shot and immediately felt that this better represented my overall impression of the moment.

I have always loved this image as an abstract in its own right, but coming across it again recently I was struck (as I often am by ICM photographs) that it could be seen as a totally new, featureless landscape, in itself.

Seeing this as a new project, and a way of utilising a favourite image, I set out to find subtle elements that might transform it from abstract to landscape.

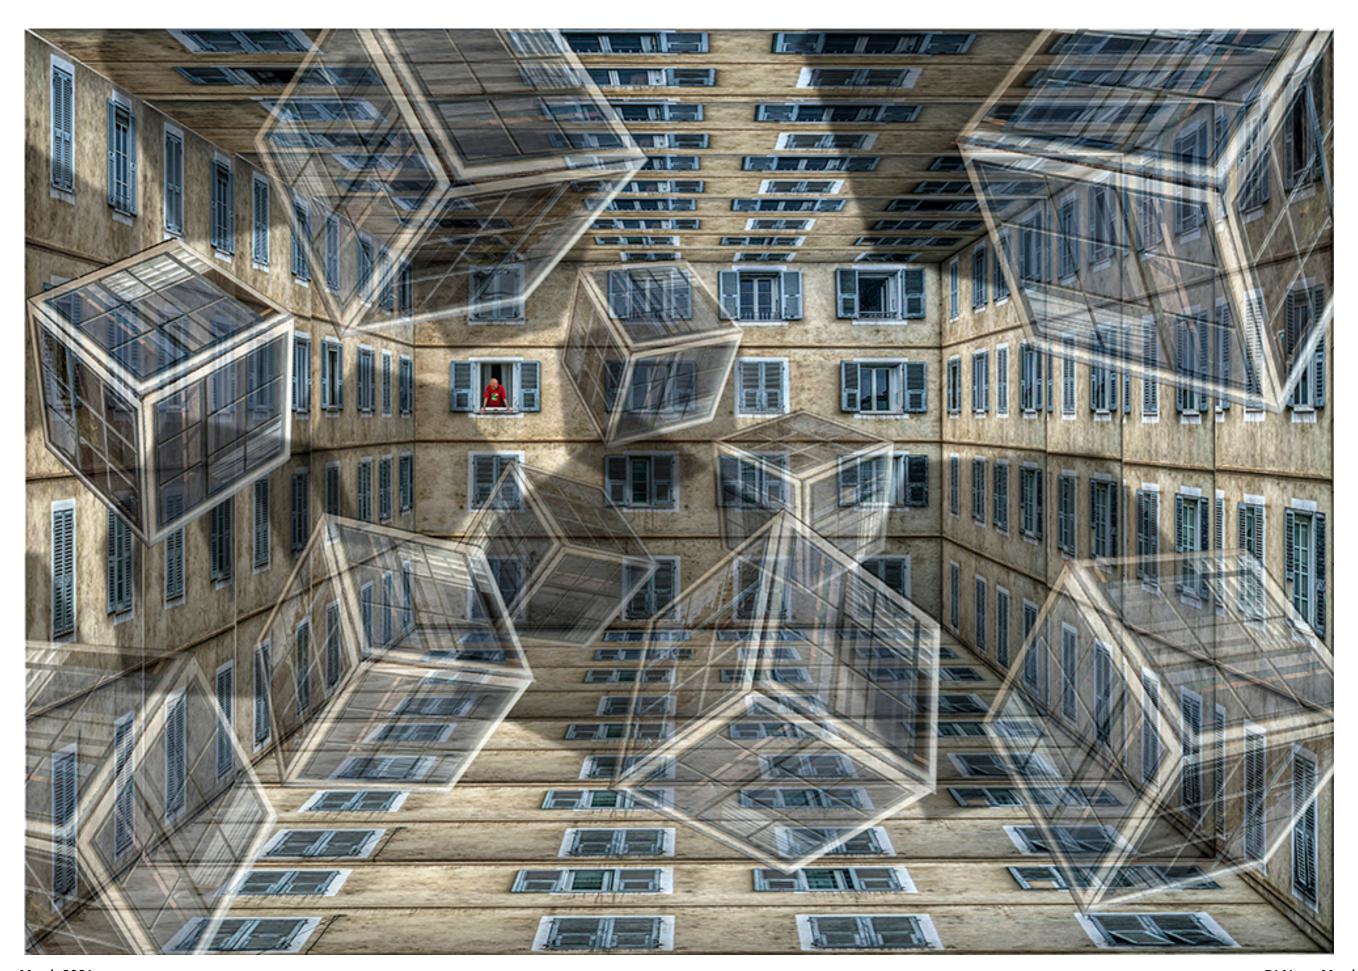

The distant hills were also captured at dawn, thousands of miles away, but the quality and the similarity of light made them an obvious choice for the background I was seeking. These were put in place using a Soft Light blend mode. The boat in the foreground proved to be more of a challenge. I felt that the soft sweeping lines of the spinnaker lent themselves to my image but the original photograph was taken in very harsh light and the sail was bright red! After much experimenting I settled on the Luminosity blend mode, combined with a drop in contrast and slightly reduced opacity.

'Shades of Morning' now represents for me a collection of memories and I am delighted to think that others may have enjoyed it too.

ANNUAL PRINT EXHIBITION 2021

Why wait? Ian Thompson, our Competitions Secretary describes how RPS Digital Imaging decided not to wait for 'normality'. And in case you missed the online AGM, we also have the gold medal winning image and the images awarded selectors' ribbons from this year's Print Exhibition selection.

Ian Thompson, Competitions Secretary

What a year. We continue to labour under the cloud of the COVID19 'lockdown' (oh, how we will hate to hear that word when it's all over...) and – without too much self-congratulatory fanfare – Digital Imaging seems to succeed with our efforts in spite of it. Our on-line offerings have become almost legendary by now! Using on-line methods, the Projected Image competition worked well last September and at that time we had an eye on the future for this year's print competition, wondering how we might be made to run it. As it turned out, we had to manage it on-line but many brows were furrowed in our team: surely running a print selection process on-line is a bit of a logical oxymoron?

Much debate ensued: at first the whole event was 'on', then 'off', then 'on' again. Ultimately the decision was taken to replicate the methods used by the RPS distinctions team where one person would assess the technical quality of the prints, with the selectors viewing the digital copies of those prints which were uploaded as part of the submission process. Further, we decided to offer printing services to any member, not just those from overseas – (35 members took up that offer, incidentally).

It is with some admiration that I report that there was not one print was rejected due to quality problems – this is quite a feat! We received entries from 178 members, which surprised us because last year we received from only 138. We surmised that our beloved membership was concentrating on photography rather than anything else in the lockdown! It was to the forefront of our minds that – as for 2020 – it might prove that we would not be able to hold any 'physical' exhibitions in 2021, therefore we decided to reduce the effort and cost requirements for our entrants by requesting three A4 prints, unmounted, with RPS Digital Imaging preparing mounts if a real exhibition becomes possible.

Normally, the selection process is carried out 'live' in front of the audience at our AGM, following which our selectors would (in private) wander around the prints which had been hung on the wall so as to pick their two ribbon winners each, the Gold Medal winner, and the sub-set of 30-or-so pictures which would be used in a 'short exhibition' for venues not able to handle the entire total of – this year – 178 pictures. Naturally, we were not going to be able to operate like that this year but at the same time we wanted to replicate the method as closely as possible.

So – yet again – the on-line submission and display software we have created was modified slightly to follow the flow of the physical process. Our three selectors and I met online using Zoom on 17 February and they were subjected to 178 'triptychs', one from each entrant. They were also shown the individual images at full resolution and then they 'huddled' to pick the one from each three to be used in the exhibition. That process took some four hours, after which the selectors were given some 'private' time to wander through the 178 accepted entries so as to pick their favourites for assignment of two ribbons each, plus candidates for the Gold Medal, and seven or eight each to form the content of the 'short' exhibition. Returning to the Zoom fray, some on-line arm-wrestling took place and in a short while all had settled – amicably! – on the seven top images, with another 22 to make up the 'short exhibition' numbers.

In summary, I would say that by judicious compromise we achieved our goal. Whilst hoping that we will indeed be able to portray a superb set of prints on exhibition walls around the country, at least I feel that we have kept the concept of the Print Exhibition alive in our members' hearts. At the AGM on 28 February we showed a video sequence of the entire set of prints accepted for the exhibition. You can view this video on YouTube with the addition of a recording of the selectors commenting on the winning image and on those awarded ribbons: youtu.be/T3LFbwz4d38. All the images can also be seen in the Print Exhibition 2021 gallery on the RPS Digital Imaging Hall of Fame.

Finally, a big round of virtual applause, please, for our selectors Janet Haines ARPS, John Miskelly FRPS and Martin Addison FRPS and our back-room Zoom team for the prodigious effort and enthusiasm displayed by everyone throughout the process.

Long Live the Print Exhibition!!

A UK MEMBER

Alan Brown LRPS, based in Dorset, is considering an ARPS as the next step in his life-long in photography journey.

Alan Brown LRPS

In the early 60's, at the age of 13 my father bought me my first camera, a Fujica 35 Auto M rangefinder camera, and the interest in photography began. My science teacher introduced me to processing black & white film and the use of school darkroom. The joy of developing your own film, the smell of the developer and fixer, seeing the negatives and then for the first time you see the image slowly appear.

In the early 70's I had a break for a few years until I could afford my first 35mm SLR and as many have done, setting up the darkroom in the garage, kitchen, bathroom or spare bedroom. Much later when I was approaching retirement I did three years at night school, where we had the luxury of a well kitted out darkroom, and I achieved my C&G in photography.

Joining my local Camera Club in Wimborne and seeing the quality and standard of other members' images inspired me to improve my photography to another level. Listening and taking on board judges' comments, my photography improved, and my images started to do well in club and inter-club competitions, and I achieved my LRPS in 2012.

What I learnt in the early days in the darkroom has helped in digital and the use of modern-day software. Today it is so much easier to produce colour images, but I still prefer producing black & white images, and with printers today the results are amazing.

Doing well in competitions and achieving acceptances is very gratifying, but when someone requests an image, and they display it in their home, it is even more rewarding.

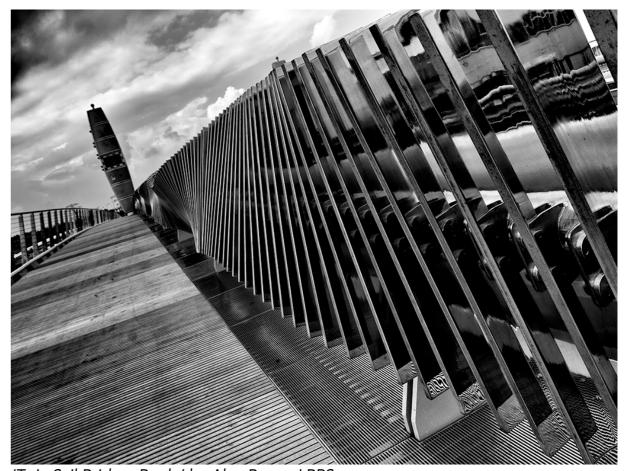

Photography throughout my life has been a great hobby, meeting many people from all walks of life with a common interest. I now need to find a style, concentrate on a project, and hopefully achieve my ARPS.

ANOTHER UK MEMBER

Athena Carey ARPS shares the project she produced from her year locked down in Cobham, Surrey.

Athena Carey ARPS

In "normal times" I am primarily a travel and landscape photographer. My photographic style typically involves fairly minimalist scenes with a strong subject in a seemingly serene environment. I use the language of photography to tell comforting stories of the calm that is missing from our every day, chaotic lives.

But in 2020 the world changed. A new coronavirus began infecting humans, spreading quickly around the planet to become a global pandemic. Here in the UK, we have been in three national lockdowns, during which we are not allowed to leave the area in which we live. As a result, all of my projects which require travel are indefinitely on hold.

'Lausanne' by Athena Carey ARPS

Fortunately for me, I have a small studio in my home. So for now, rather than traveling out into the world in search of landscapes to tell my stories, I am staying inside, making something else.

'Illusion' by Athena Carey ARPS

This may sound ideal but I did not make the shift from working out in the world to working within a single confined space without some despair. Like most of us, I am not used to such a restricted existence. As each long day passes quietly into the next without well-defined boundaries, I have the sense that I am doing nothing, accomplishing nothing. This feeling of nothingness led to my calling this body of work, on fait rien, meaning "one does nothing". The title, like the photos, is a reflection of my mood but as I look at the mass of accumulated images it is obvious that this title does not reflect reality. Without doubt, I have been working and this work has helped me to focus and to add purpose and definition to my days during these difficult times.

'Unfound' by Athena Carey ARPS

'Memory' by Athena Carey ARPS

The photos in on fait rien are humorous, contemplative, surrealist, occasionally happy but often melancholic. The moods and photographic styles vary dramatically but the underlying theme is my evolving evaluation of and adaptation to this global pandemic from the relative safety of my home. It is my hope that the broad range of emotions, from anguish to gratitude, that this safety creates for me can be felt through the photographs.

AN OVERSEAS MEMBER

Saurabh Bhattacharya ARPS of Navi Mumbai, India has contributed an article entitled 'Matheran - The Heaven on Earth'.

Saurabh Bhattacharya ARPS

Matheran (2600 feet), one of the smallest hill stations in India, is located on the Western Ghats mountain range in the state of Maharashtra, India. The area was first identified by Hugh Poyntz Malet in 1850 and developed later as a sought-after destination for weekend travelers coming from Mumbai (100 km) and Pune (120 km). The place is well connected from those cities by rail and road. The place is also famous for its heritage narrow gauge mountain railway, which was opened in 1907. There are 40 magnificent viewpoints and two lakes in this area. This charming place can be visited within the span of a day but to enjoy the place, a two-night stay is necessary. Matheran is very famous for photographers of all genres. Here one can find lush green meadows, waterfalls, forests, a full view of the Western Ghats, varieties of flora and fauna and biodiversities.

In Matheran, motor vehicles are not allowed, although the usage of plastic could not be stopped. Roads are made of red Laterite earth. There are many hotels and Parsi bungalows available here - old British-style architecture is also preserved which will take you back to early 90s. Hand-pulled rickshaw and horse rides in cloudy and misty mornings are very popular to the tourists visiting throughout the year. Post monsoon, September to October is the best time to visit Matherna. During the visit, one should carry a raincoat, rain cover for the camera bag, sun cap, torch light and mosquito repellent cream.

SE CENTRE'S LOCKDOWN EXPERIENCE

Melanie Chalk, DI SE Centre Organiser & Web Editor Melanie Chalk describes the series of small online workshops focussing on particular skills and techniques that she organised during our lockdown year.

What adjectives best describe your Lockdown experience?

Inspired, motivated, enthusiastic and energised?

Or bored, trapped, unchallenged, unmotivated?

Did you neglect your photographic aspirations or decide to use the time for photographic projects, learn new skills and perhaps find a way to record an emotional response to what you were seeing or feeling during these unprecedented times?

Was your photography a welcome distraction, a means of reflection, a way to experience mindfulness, or in this strange moment in time, an opportunity to understand and record it in pictures?

'Fading Beauty' by Hilary Bailey LRPS

For many RPS Digital Imaging members, the last year has been punctuated by regular, top-quality online events presented by some great photographers across the genre of subjects. Hundreds have been inspired, entertained and wowed at 4pm UK time on many Saturday afternoons since the spring of 2020. Others have signed up for exclusive workshops to increase their knowledge with processing techniques and camera craft, and the resulting skillsets learnt have produced some wonderfully creative images.

Celia Henderson

Celia Henderson has tutored some amazing workshops in the South East and creativity has blossomed amongst photographers who signed up. Celia, an IT trainer, has combined her love of photography with that of teaching and her Photoshop workshops have inspired, motivated, entertained and showed varied techniques and tools to provide participants with the skills to produce Fine Art style images.

Comments on Celia's 'Textures and Brushes' Workshop:

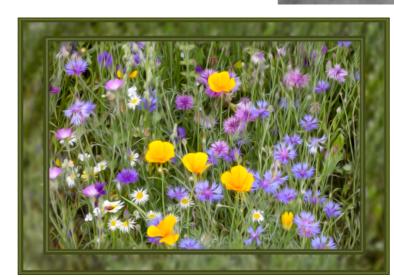

"I thoroughly, thoroughly enjoyed the first session today - really helpful, informative and inspiring. Am most keen to get on with homework and practice!"

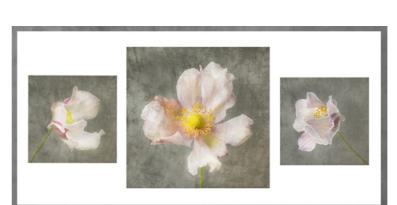

"... my main reason for emailing is to congratulate you on the excellent Resources package sent out in advance. Just brilliant and so helpful - something other workshop leaders should emulate. The course, the paperwork all seem so well organised - for which, thank you."

Glenys Garnett

A photographer, digital artist, graphic designer and trainer, Glenys Garnett admits she wants to help others get the maximum enjoyment from her workshops and to come away from them with a renewed enthusiasm for photography and to develop their own creative images.

Six very lucky people who were quick to secure places enjoyed one such workshop, 'Developing a Creative Approach to Photography' in three sessions, and the feedback from these workshops has been so positive.

"Glenys is a first-class and inspiring tutor who went above and beyond my expectations. The personal 1:1 session was a brilliant extra and nothing was too much trouble in terms of guidance and support"

"I learned so much. Glenys you have a unique set of talents and you are such a good teacher. I feel I now have so much more growth potential in my photography. I accept that developing my creative side will not be easy but you have given me the motivation, direction and techniques to allow me to grow."

Below, some images from Lorraine Grey LRPS that were created as a result of the sessions with Glenys and opposite, 'Images Into the Woods' by Colin Smith LRPS who attended Glenys' workshop.

Going forward

Polina Plotnikova has yet to complete her first Lensbaby workshops, 'Mastering Your Lensbaby'. When the course is finishes in March, with assignment reviews, it will be very interesting to see the subsequent images produced.

As we follow our roadmaps out of lockdown, maybe other activities will start to consume our time, but creativity has been unleashed, there is no going back! Workshops and the reinforcing of skills will continue down here in the South East, they have been enjoyed by many, and people are so sad when they end. More are being planned and plotted on the calendar, keep checking when they go live.

Click HERE to visit the Digital Imaging SE Centre and check for the latest workshop availability.

MORE HELP WANTED!

Digital Imaging Eastern Centre is looking for a volunteer to take over from Mark Gillett LRPS, the current Centre Organiser, who is stepping down at the end of March due to other commitments. Mark has been supported in his role by Graham Wickens (Treasurer), Sue Vaines (Web Editor) and Dave Balcombe. Mark says:

We normally hold our meetings at Foxton Village Hall and Sports Pavilion, Foxton near Cambridge although there is no reason why meetings could not be held elsewhere given the size of the region and in more normal times would hold three or four meetings or events over the course of the year, usually between April and November.

I see the role of Centre Organiser very much as being part of a team, with the primary focus being delivery of a which meets the needs of DI region. Non-members are would encourage them to to the wider benefits that a good relationship with joint events with the Region Groups.

varied and active programme and RPS members in the always welcome and we join the RPS to gain access membership brings. We have East Anglia Region and plan and other Special Interest

The key role of Centre Organiser is to coordinate (with other members of the team) the planning and delivery of events and activities for the centre, liaising with DI national, East Anglia Region and the wider RPS in furtherance of the charitable and educational aims of the RPS.

The workload varies with the season but isn't overly onerous and in normal circumstances would take about 2-4 hours each month. Attendance would be required at events we organise and these have previously run on Sundays from about 10.00 to 16.00. Additional time will be required in the lead-up to these events as well in terms of liaising with speakers, organising equipment and producing attendance sheets from the online booking system.

If you think you might be interested in taking on this role and would like to talk further please email Mark Gillett LRPS at digeastern@rps.org.

RPS DISTINCTIONS

The new season of Distinctions assessments has now commenced, with an opportunity to book a place as an observer. The new year has ushered in exciting changes to the RPS Distinctions programme, including advice on Statements of Intent, a new Portraiture genre and observer places at Fellowship Assessments. There will be new 1:1 statement of intent review sessions. Bookings for 1:1 portfolio reviews are now open again. These are all covered on the Distinctions Update page of the RPS website. If you missed any of last year's excellent Distinctions Live talks, you can catch up HERE.

The RPS Distinctions department has set up a schedule of new assessment dates up through June 2021. To see the most up-to-date information on availability on Distinction Assessment Days please choose from the following links:

For Digital Imaging members, issue 8 of Accolade, which delves into members' Distinctions successes, is now available. See the email message which announced this newsletter for a members-only link to it. The RPS has a FAQ page where you can find out more about the status of the assessment programme HERE. In addition, a number of Chapters and Regions have begun to offer online Distinctions Study Groups. You can find these by searching the RPS website HERE. And don't forget the closed Facebook Group: RPS Distinctions **Official Group**.

DIGITAL IMAGING EVENTS & LISTINGS

With restrictions on meeting venues affecting all manner of gatherings, it is not hard to see why Digital Imaging Centres are having trouble resuming their previous style and frequency of programming. But many are now taking their events online. So keep an eye on the events page. And if you'd like to lend a hand, several centres need volunteers to help with Zoom events, so contact Lyn Phillips (digsecretary@btinternet.com) to get involved.

The Digital Imaging online event programme we've been running since last April will continue indefinitely. New online events are being planned for throughout the New Year.

VOLUNTEERING

This month, Carol Drew wrote in to tell us about a very long-serving volunteer who may be known to quite a few members.

Janet Barton

Dear DI News,

It is with very great sadness that we announce the tragic passing of Janet Barton on 20 February after a short illness. She was a committee member of Thames Valley Digital Imaging which met at Woosehill, Bracknell, and until a few years ago had been their Programme Secretary for a long time. She was a very active member at the pre-Covid regular meetings, welcoming everyone with a warm and friendly greeting, and ensuring that there was a continuous supply of tea, coffee and biscuits throughout the day. She had a wide knowledge and love of everything photographic, which was reflected in the wide variety of speakers she arranged over the years, and she will be sorely missed. Our condolences go to her husband and family at this very sad time.

Thank you very much, Carol Drew

DIGITAL IMAGING DISCUSSION GROUP

If you're feeling a bit isolated and would like to hang out and chat about photography, please drop by Digital Imaging on Facebook where you can also ask – and answer - questions. You'll need to join it before you can participate, but the advantage is that it's a closed group open only to Digital Imaging members. It's especially useful if you are experiencing FOMO - Fear Of Missing Out - as a number of useful things often show up there first.
