

52N 2W Gloucestershire

This was my second visit to the point. The first was unprepared and without wellies and the very muddy and slippery footpath was challenging! Consequently my frustration came out in the form of very lack lustre images! 52N 2W is in the village of Alderton and is easily accessed (in the correct footwear!) but the actual point isn't a particularly inspiring location. I was concerned that the light might be challenging but I was undaunted and armed with a determination to get it right this time. So, with the sun fairly high in the sky I shot directly into it and decided to get creative. I used in camera multiple exposures and F22 to get the star burst effect through the tree. The images were captured at 2.22pm and I went home happy!
